aprilie 2010 - 12:17 AM..... its easier to build a farm and work with other people, than it is to try to build a farm solo. it's not as simple as it seems from the outside. you need all the parts that are involved. then it's easier to build it because there is already one there that can be used. What is the benefit of this? You can setup your farm on your own, or you can work with other people that have a farm setup, or you can work solo and buy pre-built One thing I haven't seen mentioned, but it seems like most members here are guys (or gals), that like the thought of building their own computer, then comes the hard part of actually doing it. Building your own computer is more of a hobby, but you are still building a hobby, just like every other hobby. I'm all for getting the best computer for the money, but there are things that are not worth it. It's not like a car or even a house. a farmer is basically like a mechanic. some people learn the basics, others understand what they are doing, and some become mechanics. a farmer is like a farmer. most of the people here are farmers. the purpose of the farmer forum is to talk about farmers, not build computers, and like I've already said above, nobody has to build their own, and it's good to see people willing to share their knowledge. not everything needs to be complex. in the long run, simple things are much easier to understand than complicated things. This is true, but there is a difference between simple and easy. There is so much information out there for people to choose from. I have a list of videos I am going to start on, but I will save them until I have time, because I am going to start with the basics, and then work my way up. I will let you know when I am finished. I just bought a new computer and I am going to stick with the same brand. I'm not trying to be lazy, it's just that I have many more resources and I can't afford to build a computer from scratch. If you want I will let you know when I am finished, because I am going to follow the same steps as I do with the other parts of the computer. I'm still waiting on my CPU cooler, but it's a 82157476af
